Wray Appointed Roundup Editor BJC's 1962-63 School Term

Miss Judie Heyliger, relinquished the keys to the Publications room as Rex Wray, newly appointed for next semester, prepares to take over. Rex, a freshman this year and a journalist, will take over the position second semester as he edits the February 7th issue of the

Dr. Chaffee Elected As Regional Chairman

President Eugene B. Chaffee was re-elected at the 44th meeting of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools held last month in Portland, Oregon. Chaffee, who is a three-year term as president of the higher commission, will continue to lead the association. The Northwest Association, one of the leading associations covering the U.S., has 85 member colleges and universities throughout Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Utah, and Alaska, ranging in enrollment from George Fox College, with 200 students, to the University of Washington, with 22,000 students.

Orchestra To Give Concert January 12

The 26th season with an annual concert Friday, Jan. 12, at 8:15 p.m. in the college gymnasium, is the Boise Junior Community Symphony. Conducted by the director of the music department, BJC, will conduct the orchestra in a program composed of "Symphony of Variations" by Haydn, "Variations on a Theme by Brahms" by Haydn, and "Dances by Dvorak". (Continued on page 4)

From the Office of
Dr. Chatburn:

All students planning to return for the second semester are invited to confer for preregistration with their advisors January 22 and 23. Special emphasis should be placed on articulating the course credits students may wish transferred to other colleges or universities.

Advisors may be selected by the student for the second semester, reported Dr. Chatburn. He also encourages closer contact and cooperation between advisor and advisee.

termining accreditation. This is primarily to enable students to transfer credits from one accredited college to another in the U.S. For instance, this makes it possible for a student who graduates from BJC to transfer to one of the Ivy League colleges of New England or to outstanding universities in the North Central, Southern, Middle States and California on the same basis as those graduating from other accredited colleges and universities of the nation.

All students returning for the second semester must have their student activity ticket validated during registration week. Sophomores may accomplish this on January 24, while freshmen are scheduled for January 25th and 26th.

Following the payment of fees, students should report to room 108 with their activity tickets. This process must be accomplished before a student has completed registration for the semester.

Education Programs Presented On KGEM

Musical education programs are being presented every Sunday night between 6:15 and 9:30 on KGEM radio. These programs are presented and produced entirely by Washington State University, Montana State University and the University of Idaho.

Begin Next Semester New Music Courses

Two new music department courses will be added to the BJC curriculum next semester reported Dr. Chatburn and Mr. Streetman.

For students who enjoy singing but don't have the time or because of conflicting schedule requirements are not enrolled in a choir course, there will be offered chorus which will meet Tuesday evenings in the music auditorium from 8:00 to 10:00. Director of vocal music, David Streetman, said there is plenty of room for one or two hundred interested students and encourages enrollment and participation in this choir course.

Opera workshop, which is also a new course, will present the "Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart this spring. The course will also be able to provide light opera entertainment for clubs and service organizations. Mr. Streetman announced the need of one experienced baritone for a major part in the opera. Students with the ability, experience and interest are asked to see Mr. Streetman as soon as possible.

There will be a closed period of two weeks during which no club or school extra-curricular activities will be permitted during the week prior to, and the week of conference athletic contests. This period generally begins the Monday of the week before the week of examinations.

India Threatens More Force

Satish D. Kallebar, chief of the information service of the Indian embassy, said last week India will use force if necessary to remove Chinese Communist troops from India's territory.

The Indian diplomat made the statement during a lively radio debate with Bernardo Teixeira, a member of Portugal's delegation to the United Nations.

Asked why India had moved into Goa first before tackling Chinese Communist troops who have pushed across India's northern frontier, Kallebar replied, "In Goa people are concerned while in the Himalayan mountains where there is only barren land at 14,00 to 17,000 feet."

NATO Exercise Scheduled

The Pentagon announced last week that the U.S. will test its capability to reinforce rapidly NATO's defense by flying 6,000 battle-ready troops to Germany in mid-January for training.

The troops will include three battle groups of the Fourth Infantry Division, a regular outfit stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington, along with their artillery, tanks, and other support units.

The huge airlift across the Atlantic will be part of a NATO training exercise called Long Thrust II, which will continue in Germany from January 16 to February 12. However, the defense department said two of the battle groups will remain in Germany temporarily afterward for additional training, and to provide for the rotation of other units.

Peaceful Solution Seen

Results of talks last week brought guarded optimism that Indonesia and The Netherlands may find a peaceful solution to their dispute over west New

Guinea

Indonesia is demanding that the Dutch turn over at least administrative control of the territory.

An informant said the Indonesian government was prepared to drop its claim of sovereignty and to offer the 700,000 Papuans there the right of eventual self-determination of The Netherlands hands over administration of the territory to Jakarta, reportedly a concession to pressure from the U.S. and Australia, who administer the eastern half of the island.

U-2 "Spy" Plane Crashed

A U.S. plane similar to the craft downed over the Soviet Union with Francis Powers aboard in 1960 crashed last week near Bush, Louisiana.

Charles P. Stratton, pilot of the U2, bailed out and was rescued from a tree overlooking snake-infested swampland some 10 hours later.

The U2 planes are used to sample nuclear debris, cosmic rays and for high altitude weather reconnaissance.

Portugal To Quit UN

Portugal Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, angry from lack of concrete support against India's conquest of Goa, said last week his country plans to quit the United Nations.

He criticized the U.S. and Britain—Portugal's main allies—for their failure to give Portugal more than oral backing in the enclave war of Dec. 18-19.

"When small nations are defeated it is sad and afflicting," Salazar said, "but the inability of the great to defend the right is incomparably graver."

British and American delegates backed a Security Council resolution.

Salazar set no date for the withdrawal.

January Graduates Number Eighteen

Eighteen BJC students are candidates for January graduation according to the credential list released last week by the office of the registrar. Final eligibility for graduation status will be announced upon completion of examinations next week.

These students are tentatively eligible for Associate of Arts degrees: Frances Byrum, Vernie Hawkins, Dobbrell Jamison, Sandra Hoxsey, Alva Schaeffer, Oliver Smith and David Vall. The 11 students tentatively eligible for diplomas are: John Arant, Terrence Butler, James Clark, James Graham, Gary Leach, Goon Lim, Lawrence Litz, Lester McDaniel, James Rogers, Clifford Stephenson and Benjamin Willoughby.

IS COLLEGE NECESSARY?

Opportunities toward college education in this country are practically boundless, relatively easy to obtain and a delicious fruit from the orchards of a free people. In fact, let us take license to compare a college or university to an apple tree. The trees differ in size and quality, but even the scrubbiest bear some fruit if you search—some nutrition.

The rub is that not everyone likes apples. Of course that is at once an immediate and obvious statement. Why then is the assumption that not everyone likes college less obvious?

One of the primary and most repeated pieces of advice is to get a college education. Get good grades if you must, learn something even, but get that degree. Older and otherwise contented adults who have never stepped on a college campus, and who know little of college life are often quick to tell you they wish they had obtained a degree, only assuming that the grass is greener on the college side.

Articles in mass-distribution periodicals offer figures on how much more a college graduate earns in a lifetime than an "ordinary" man, again assuming that you care about that sort of thing. If you don't, there is something socially gratifying in the prestige of a degree, they might say.

Only it isn't really prestige any longer that comes with a college education because, after all, graduating from college is the thing to do, and it is being done. Forgiving the simplicity of the word "prestige" (and even simpler phrases as "equality among men" and "to each his own"), what comes with a degree today is a subtle, complex and darker term called social significance. And we may live to see a time when graduation becomes a social acceptance.

Today, as colleges are bursting at their libraries, the cry of "go to college, young people!" are not markedly subdued, or even very much selective in whom they are advising. If anything, they are issued louder and more frenzied in fear that not everyone can find room in college, assuming again, one suspects that there can be no other road to take.

There you have it. Aesthetically, financially and socially colleges better one's life. But still the old rug: there are students who do not like college and are possibly doing poorly because they would rather be someplace else, at least for a year or two. Maybe they never want to come back. What then? Are they banished to a life of misery and poverty?

Rubbish! They know what they want. If not, they can find their way back. One of the very brightest merits of formal education is a total disregard for age, and it is never too late.

If and when the student returns he may even take an opportunity to scorn such ruses as social dancing and bowling and get busy and learn something. — R.W.

THREE IRANIAN STUDENTS PRESENTLY ATTENDING BJC

Among the foreign students attending Boise Junior College this semester are three fellows from Teheran, the capital of Iran. Their names are Parviz Faramarzi, Bahram Tehranchipour, and Edward Adamian.

Parviz is an engineering major who graduates this year and plans to attend the University of Idaho, to go on to his Master's degree.

Bahram is majoring in political science, to return to Iran and enter politics. Both Parviz and Bahram have been "King Beard" of BJC and are still single.

Edward also plans to graduate this year and continue to receive his Master's degree at the University of Idaho. Edward is married and lives on the bench here in Boise.

These fellows have had the common trouble of learning English when starting to college in the United States. It is quite an accomplishment to learn a language and study courses taught in it at the same time.

Though all three of the Iranian students are from the same city, Bahram was not known before they met here in the United States. These students have not received governmental help in meeting their expenses, but have earned their own way to the United States and for their schooling.

The capital city contains the University of Teheran. "This," says Parviz, "is an extremely difficult institution to obtain entrance to. Its entrance requirements include not only the high school diploma, but the need to pass physics, chemistry, language and biology-zoology-botany examinations. Besides these requirements, there are so many students waiting to get in."

New Light On An Old Warning

The year 1960 ranked among the lowest in polio incidence in the past 22 years, reports the Public Health Service. But during the year 1960 the cost of repairing polio-ravaged lives remained high, reports the national foundation. The reason for this state of affairs, the March of Dimes organization points out, is that the physical damage caused by polio often takes years to repair.

Even though there were only an estimated 3,100 new polio cases in 1960, there were still about 40,000 polio patients, most of them stricken in previous years, who needed financial aid to continue their rehabilitation.

And these statistics are a powerful way of stating again a simple, direct appeal: Get your Salk shots now. Statistics bear out another warning of the National Foundation: even though the Salk vaccine has sharply reduced polio cases, polio continues to strike among the unvaccinated. This fact was reflected in the reports of polio flareups this past summer and fall from Rhode Island, western New York and Puerto Rico. Reports from health officials continued to bear the tragic sentence: "Patient had not received Salk shots."

January is March of Dimes month. The dimes and dollars you've given over the years have helped develop the Salk "killed-virus vaccine and the Sabin "live-virus" polio vaccine. The dimes and dollars you give from now on will be fighting on two other important fronts—birth defects and arthritis—in addition to polio.

Remember: You paid for the development of the Salk vaccine. Why not be smart enough to use it, now that it's available?

Conscience: The playback of the still, small voice that told you not to do it in the first place.

SAY YES TO THE NEW MARCH OF DIMES

PERSONALITIES OF THE

Charles Brockway

This year's new teacher of surveying and engineering drawing, Charles Brockway, is also the advisor of Intercollegiate Knights.

Following his graduation from the University of Idaho, Mr. Brockway received his degree in civil engineering in 1959. Then at the California Institute of Technology he received his M.A. degree in 1960. After occupying an industrial position for a short time, Mr. Brockway decided to enter the teaching profession.

Mr. Brockway is from the winter recreation area of Ketchum, Idaho, near Sun Valley. Some of his most enjoyable years were spent with the participation in the world-famous array of winter and summer sports in the Sun Valley area. Basketball is also of interest to this new faculty member. He said he greatly enjoys basketball.

Plans for the future center mainly around his career activities. He will continue instructing and advising and working toward his Ph.D. The most important plan for the near future in a non-academic way include being a papa.

Mr. Brockway particularly noted that the faculty and students seem to be very cooperative, which makes his teaching and advising positions worthwhile and satisfying.

David Streetman

David Streetman, the new director of vocal music, said last week, "BJC has the best music section of any junior college I've seen. I have been particularly impressed with the orchestra. It is a thing of pride for a junior college of this size to have such a fine and large orchestra."

His undergraduate work was done at Baylor University in Texas, he got his master's degree and did his resident work on his Ph.D. in music at North Texas State University, he has studied a year in Vienna, Austria, and he is still studying for his Ph.D.

Mr. Streetman said his wife is a lovely and talented musician. They will return to Vienna for a summer.

Contrary to somewhat popular belief, students can transfer more than 64 credits to other colleges and universities. It is only in Idaho that the university and other institutions accept only the limited number of completed credit hours. The exception is that engineering students can be credited with half of the required hours for graduation at the universities. Many of state institutions accept most or all of a BJC student's completed credit hours in major divisions.

The library offers a nearly abundant supply of college catalogues and information. Students should consult such references in order to determine requirements and course credits transferable to the institution they next plan to attend.

David Streetman

mer course this year and enjoy a six-week stay in Germany.

Language studying has been of interest to Mr. Streetman. He speaks German and French. Music is still an interest, though. He is very tolerant of musical tastes, enjoys modern jazz but particularly like rock-and-roll music. Hunting is a pastime. He will further venture into the outdoors by skiing later. Mr. Streetman has become interested in literary things, many of which he has in the library at school.

Delta Psi Omega Initiation

The pledge week has been three lowly pledges of the club. The first day of the week for the club was Wednesday. The pledges were given the tour in Wonderland to participate in the Christensen was the queen, Judy McVey, and Jane Hosman. The pledges wore their all day and gave a reading from the book. They also had to be standing on a chair. They also had to be the students.

In the week to come, the pledges will be required to give a dramatic reading, an examination, after initiation night will be held.

Husband to wife, whether I still love, find out what you up to."

COMPLETE PLEDGE PERIOD

If you have been wondering over the Christmas holiday what the costumes were for on campus the 10th through the 15th, you are in the same position as many. The Intercollegiate Knights were having their annual "hell week," to denote the long process of page period was nearly completed.

Today, this medieval organization still remains intact, but with much more intensity in relation to peaceful means of bargaining and living with others. In 1919 the Intercollegiate Knights, a men's service organization, was founded and today it is nationally established throughout our colleges and universities.

Together, these men of ability are enriching their lives by living up to the rigid standards, as did the knights of the ancient world. Their motto, honor, gallantry and loyalty, provides the basis for these devotions, not only in the organization itself, but all their associations with others.

The interchangeable parts have been successfully transmitted, until now, the unit is progressing even further along these lines.

The Intercollegiate Knights emblem means that the concepts of the body are for the advancement of a better America.

Those men obtaining the status of an Intercollegiate Knight include the following: Dave Ackley, John Swan, Jerry Burt, Larry Ames, Richard Hughes, Bob King, Dick Maule, Mike Grisham and Toby Thompson.

Tolerance: The uncomfortable suspicion that the other fellow may be right after all.

FASHION
REPORTER

By Shelley Simpson

Are you looking for the secret stylish way to begin your wardrobe? The one word which will give you the most important clue is this essential word: mod.

Are you staying again this year is soft but always freshly used look. Whether you prefer smart, tailored look or the soft look your best way to the door of your new year's fashions without having it hit you the face is to take advantage the styles at C. C. Anderson's. Dressing for an active life will be conditions on many a student this spring. More and more we are beginning to realize we are living in an active world; more and more are the designers beginning to realize that styles should be according to way of life.

Let's all start off this new year with the heading of "pretty, neat, and popular" with our new fashions from C. C. Anderson's just won't be undersold.

Globetrotters To Appear Here Jan. 27

Celebrating their 35th consecutive season of exploits unparalleled in all sports history, the great Harlem Globetrotters of basketball will headline another of their thrill and fun packed programs here at Boise Junior College on January 27 at 8:00 p.m. in the gym.

It's another super-Globetrotter aggregation backed up and abetted by an array of clever entertainers brought along to make sure the fans have a most enjoyable evening. Tickets—reserved, general admission and student—will go on sale Friday in the vice president's office.

They've played in 80 different countries, traveled twice completely around the world, delighting millions. They've made many an appearance for our state department, to help combat advances of Communism in countries we've tried to save for democracy.

This new 35th edition slated to play here, is carrying on in noble fashion, Trotter tradition. It's an exceptional array of great players adding to the team's great record of 7,125 victories against only 309 defeats for the past 34 years.

ORCHESTRA CONCERT

Other concerts in the series will be presented February 25 and May 2. Concertmistress of the orchestra is Kathryn Eckhardt Mitchell, also of the BJC music staff. Mrs. Mitchell founded the symphonic group and served for many years as its conductor. Principal horn player is James Henry, teacher of brass instruments at BJC.

String players in the orchestra who are students at BJC are: Karen Best, Larry Boyd, Tom Cochrane, Eddie Haddock, Mark Griffin, Donna Lawwill, Kathleen Morrison, Vicki Hughes, Barbara Pipkin, JoAnn Thompson and Carmen Turner.

Wind and percussion players who are BJC students include: Larry Boyd, Robert Bybee, Toni Holverson, Steve Tennyson, David Smythe, Joel Slagg and Carl Williams.

Since its inception the Boise Junior College Community Symphony has provided an opportunity for outstanding student instrumentalists to join with experienced musicians of the community in playing major symphonic works.

Faculty and students of BJC are admitted to these concerts upon presentation of their activity cards.
